NAME: Anshu Goyal
YEAR: Third
MAJOR: Environmental Policy
MINOR: Economics
REMOTE LEARNING STUDY TOOL: I use the Forest app to focus on my schoolwork. I set a timer, put my phone down, and by the end I have added trees to my virtual forest!

NAME: Aura Celniker
YEAR: Third
MAJOR: Molecular and Cell Biology
MINOR: Environmental Systems
REMOTE LEARNING STUDY TOOL: I make sure my study space is comfortable and somewhere I can focus. For me, that means making sure my room is clear and full of lots of light.

NAME: Chris Brede-Ortega
YEAR: Second
MAJOR: Education Sciences and Sociology
MINOR: Cognitive Science
REMOTE LEARNING STUDY TOOL: I take things one day at a time to avoid overloading myself, as well as set aside time for self-care.

NAME: Gracie Chen
YEAR: Fourth
MAJOR: Molecular and Cell Biology
MINOR: Psychology
REMOTE LEARNING STUDY TOOL: I recently started using an app called Notion! It’s a virtual notebook, planner, tracker, and so much more. I like to use the calendar function and list out the assignments and tasks I have to stay on top of my workload.

REMOTE LEARNING TIPS

1. Schedule breaks. You work so hard, take care of yourself!
2. Set aside a specific space to do all your schoolwork in.
3. Create a routine of when you go to class and any activities you have planned for the day. A planner can help with this!

REMOTE LEARNING RESOURCES

OASIS: There are two central workshops: LATS and MSTP. LATS is for reading and writing. MSTP is for math and the sciences. These are more group-oriented workshops.

CONTENT TUTORING: You can get personalized support for courses in the following departments: Biology, Chemistry, Economics, Math, Physics, Psychology, Political Science, and Statistics.

SUPPLEMENTAL INSTRUCTION--SI: You can learn course material with your peers for courses in Biology, Chemistry, Economics, Math, Physics, Psychology, Engineering, and Statistics.

WRITING HUB: There is one-on-one, online writing tutoring by appointment, 6 days/week. You can meet with a tutor to talk about the writing process or get feedback on your essay.
